

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to a skin care composition for the topical delivery of a soy product comprising a non-denatured soy product and a stabilizing system, the stabilizing system comprising a member selected from the group consisting of an antioxidant, a chelating agent, or a preservative. This invention also relates to methods of using the skin care compositions of this invention for treating skin conditions and improving the appearance and feel of the skin.

002207 4 15136960

10